Instrument Calibration

Who knows better about your plant's process control system other than the people that designs and builds it? Ordinary instrument calibration service is usually done by service personnel with surface level know-how's that lacks the understanding of the process of your control system. Unlike ordinary instrument calibration service providers, FORTECH has many years of experience on designing and building process control systems. In addition, FORTECH has team of state certified Professional Engineers whom truly understand your process control systems and stand behind the works and services that we provide.

FORTECH offers on-site instrument calibration service to minimize or even eliminate down time. Our certified Professional Engineers define and oversee the calibration procedure and process to ensure our customers receive the highest quality of service. In addition, each calibrated device receives a FORTECH certified calibration stamp and customer receives a detail report documenting calibration results.

FORTECH has extensive knowledge on servicing the following instruments and devices typically found within the water and wastewater industry:

- Chlorine Analyzer
- pH Analyzer
- Turbidity Analyzer
- Sludge Level Probe
- Temperature Sensor
- Flow Transmitter
- Level Transmitter
- Pressure Transmitter
- And many more!

To ensure your process is operating at peak efficiency, please call us today to schedule for an evaluation!

Contact us today for your periodic instrument calibration needs and don't forget to ask about our special offer!
